SELF TAUGHT ROXI KEYSER LAUNCHES DEBUT ALBUM

Wellington student Roxi Kesyer joined Avril this week to share the exciting news about her debut album, "Floats with Ease".

This talented teenager used the dark days of lockdown to find inspiration to compose her music and is now sharing this with the world.

She says that lockdown was a dark period for family and she found solace playing the piano and making music.

A fan of classical contemporary music she also likes to draw and poetry.

Her favourite instrument besides the piano is the violin but the piano remains her first love and this is inspired by the Italian composer Ludovico Einaudi.

Roxi is self-taught and has used you tube videos to hone her skills. She thanks her parents for always standing by her.

Her music is now available on all streaming platforms such as spotify, you tube, itunes etc..

“Just do it and start.”

Thuliswa Juqu is just doing it

Thuliswa Juqu iKasi Uniforms, a uniform supplier based in Cape Town was founded by Thuliswa Juqu who is our #WomanHero this week.

At the beginning of the Covid outbreak, Thuliswa was unemployed and started sewing as a hobby using her mother's machine

She started sewing face masks and managed to sell a few. She then made a track suit for her son which was liked by many.

This led her to start manufacturing uniforms for her son's school.

Word spread and other schools approached her to partner with them as well. She formalised her business “iKasi Uniforms” in 2021 and is now manufacturing uniforms for schools, churches, burial societies and more. Her message to all women is to “Just do it and start.”

iKasi Uniforms is now the trading name for ATJ Holdings Pty Ltd and can be found on Facebook and Instagram or via WhatsApp 0719726288.

In the center and right are two men in South African Springbok rugby kit, including green jerseys with yellow accents, white shorts, and green socks with yellow stripes. The jerseys feature the Springbok logo, the Asics logo, and the MTN logo. The background shows a cloudy sky and some greenery.

Paarl's Canan Moodie was a revelation for the Vodacom Bulls in the United Rugby Championship and he's primed for a memorable Test debut when he lines up for the Springboks against the Wallabies on Saturday.
